RULES AND REGULATIONS.

1. To call, turn the crank once quickly; then take down the receiver and place it to the ear. The Central Office will answer immediately by telephone and ask what number you wish.

2. To assure good service, answer calls promptly by telephone (do not ring back.) Stand with the lips from three to six inches from the transmitter, articulate plainly, talk in an ordinary tone of voice (strictly avoid shouting), and restrict the use of the instrument to those who are entitled to it under the contract. Should you call up Central and ask to be given a certain number, you can rely on Central doing their part; but should no response come from the number you wish to talk with, you will then know that no one is within hearing of the Phone Bell at the other end of the line.

3. When through talking hang up the receiver promptly, large end down, and give the crank one quick turn as a signal to the Central office to disconnect the wires. This is important, as other persons may be waiting for such wires, which are reported "busy" until this signal for disconnection is received.

4. When not in use the receiver should always be left hanging on the hook; otherwise a call cannot be received, and the battery will "run down" rapidly.

5. The management solicits the hearty cooperation of all subscribers in their efforts to give perfect service, and it is only through the conciliated efforts of all concerned that the best results can be obtained.

6. Please remember that frequently parties whom you call are out and if they do not answer after reasonable time, signal Central for disconnection.

7. These telephones are installed for the transaction of business and for the convenience of subscribers, and the party having them in charge will be expected to see that they are used for no other purposes.

8. To keep careful record of all connections made for parties not subscribers in this system.
