Grand Old Man Of Big Bend Leaves A Useful Monumen

57 YEARS OF PERSISTENT EFFORT FINDS REWARD IN TEXAS' NATIONAL PARK

Everett Ewing Townsend, age 77, commissioner of the Big Bend National park and a pioneer resident of this area, died at his home in South Alpine early last Friday night following an illness of several years' duration.

He was a former Texas Ranger, U. S. customs inspector, Texas legislator, sheriff and ranchman who had devoted a great part of his life to the idea of a park in the Big Bend country of Texas.

Cherishes Idea

Mr. Townsend got his first inspiration for a Big Bend park 57 years ago when he was a U. S. customs inspector in the area. He cherished the idea. In 1932 he was elected to the state legislature. While there he introduced a bill to make a state park in the section. It passed.

Thereafter he had a part in preparation of other legislation on the subject. His dream of the park was realized Sept. 5, 1943, when the governor—then Coke R. Stevenson—presented the deed for the park to the National Park service.

Mr. Townsend was made commissioner in Aug., 1947. He was curator at the time of the Sul Ross college museum here — a museum he helped create.

Patrols Border

Mr. Townsend was born in Colorado county Oct. 20, 1871. He joined the Texas Rangers when he and pictures from the park area and got them published far and wide to attract state-wide as well as nation-wide interest to the scenic wonders of the Big Bend.

During the early days of increasing publicity of the park area, Mrs. W. B. Hamilton, then secretary of the Alpine chamber of commerce, wrote many interesting stories of the country which were syndicated through papers of the United States, and W. D. Smithers of Alpine gave many fine photographs of the Big Bend to be used in the newspaper and magazine illustrations to help out the cause. Mr. Townsend appreciated the efforts of these two friends as well as efforts of others of early days who helped out on the proposed park when many passed up the idea as impossible.

15-Section Start

When E. E. Townsend was ...ted to the state legislature in ...3, he immediately went to ...rk on the park idea and on ...rch 2 of the same year he per... ded Rep. Robert M. Wagstaff Abilene to help him introduce first park bill which called for sections along the Rio Grande the lower Big Bend to be ...own as the Texas State Can... ns park.

From 1933 to 1937 Mr. Town... d kept working to enlarge the ...rk and get it into a going prop...
